Michigan Tests Labor Law On Auto Strike

Seek Order Against CIO At Chrysler

Detroit, May 12—(AP)—Chrysler's 75,000 CIO employees laid down their tools today in the first major automobile strike since 1945.

The walkout, stemming from a demand for a third round of post-war wage increases, posed an immediate test of Michigan's new labor law.

It is estimated that the strike would cost the CIO United Auto Workers $800,000 a day in wages and the corporation 5,000 cars and trucks a day.

The union sought a raise of 30 cents an hour but cut that demand to 17 cents only 12 hours before the strike. Chrysler's best offer was six cents. The pre-strike average was about $1.50 an hour.

The strikers were disciplined, quiet and effective.

12 Plants Down
Within an hour after the 8 a. m. (CST) dead line every one of Chrysler's 12 Michigan plants was down. There are three others in Indiana and one in California.

The strike is expected to idle 13,000 Briggs Manufacturing Co. employees in six plants by the end of the week. Briggs supplies Chrysler with bodies.

Gov. Sigler ordered his state labor mediation board to test the new Ewing-Tripp labor law.

The law requires a state-conducted strike vote before a walkout. The UAW-CIO ignored it on grounds that Chrysler has plants outside Michigan.

"If the law is constitutional, we might as well find out now," Sigler told newsmen.

There was little chance the federal government would enter the picture as it did in the coal and rail disputes. Officials in Washington said the federal strike injunction power is limited to disputes threatening national health and safety.

It was the first big strike at Chrysler since 1939. Not since November, 1945, have the auto workers staged a major walkout. They struck General Motors Corp. then in a siege that lasted 113 days.

The placard-bearing pickets received a surprise visit at the big Dodge plant from Henry A. Wallace, third party presidential candidate here to address a rally Thursday night. He told them:

"I am the first candidate for president ever to speak to pickets on strike. I'm glad you are doing something to get the profits of the automobile industry which rightfully belong to you."

It was the first big UAW-CIO strike in a decade that did not picket the red-haired Reuther on the picket line with his men.

Emil Massey, secretary-treasurer of the UAW-CIO, was taking his place.

The union began raising a million dollar kitty to back the strikers. Its "porkchoppers"—paid union employees—were being assessed $10 to $60 a week from their salaries.

Lowry Field Pays Tribute To Native Of Yugoslavia

Denver, May 12—(AP)—A farewell salute was paid at Lowry field today to Rev. Sgt. Vasek Benderich, 29, a Yugoslav native who had fought for three countries in the last war.

Benderich died of tuberculosis at Fitzsimons General Hospital last Friday before realizing his dream of winning United States citizenship.

His body was placed aboard a C-47 plane to be flown to Orchard Place, Ill. There it will be met by Benderich's cousin, Angelo Kovach, 813 North 14th street, DeKalb, Ill., and a military guard.

Burial services will full military honors will be held at De Kalb, probably tomorrow.

Benderich fought with the air forces of Yugoslavia, Great Britain and the United States before he came down with tuberculosis. He had been in the hospital here for more than two years.

Jews To Control Jaffa; Jerusalem Truce Broken

Tel Aviv, Palestine, May 12—(AP)—The Jews announced today their readiness to take over virtually deserted all-Arab Jaffa as soon as Hagannah forces can move in from neighboring Tel Aviv—perhaps tonight.

With the deadline for the British yielding their Holy Land mandate a little more than 48 hours away, these were other major Palestine developments:

1. Hagannah, the Jewish army, stepped up its fighting pace in southern Palestine, reportedly invaded by Egyptian volunteer troops. Hagannah said it captured three Arab bastions between Tel Aviv and Gaza after night-long battles in which 60 Arabs and five Jews were killed.

2. Arab infantry and artillery again closed the vital Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway in a slashing counterattack which regained Beit Sahir and placed the Arabs in control of the western end of Bab El Wad, the Gore 10 miles west of Jerusalem through which the highway winds.

3. Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish fighting force, said its forces, hitting in two columns, had attacked in the hills of Ephraim, which rise from the plain of Sharon into the all-Arab triangle of Tulkarm-Nablus-Ramallah. A brief announcement said three villages in the outer fringes of the hills were captured and "the attack is continuing."

4. Jewish sources in Haifa said the all-Arab town of Beisan near the Trans-Jordan frontier surrendered to Hagannah. With Tiberias and Safad farther north already taken, the Jews said they thus gained control of highways connecting their settlements north and south of Lake Galilee.

AFL-UAW Receives Highest Vote At Caterpillar Plant

Peoria, Ill., May 12—(AP)—The CIO Farm Equipment Workers tonight ended their month-old strike against the huge Caterpillar Tractor Co. soon after results of an NLRB bargaining election were announced.

The election, held at the plant, showed the AFL-UAW union received 5,974 votes, while the CIO Farm Equipment Workers received 5,170.

The CIO Farm Equipment Workers, which called a strike at Caterpillar on April 8, had campaigned for a "no union" choice among the workers.

The CIO-UFW, which formerly represented the employees, was denied a place on the ballot because its officers did not sign the non-Communist affidavits required by the Taft-Hartley law.

Taylor Denounced For Criticizing Truman In Senate

Washington, May 12—(AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) today wrathfully denounced Senator Taylor (D-Iowa) in the Senate today for criticizing President Truman and called Secretary of Defense Forrestal "a potential Hitler."

Knowland, stepping down from the rostrum where he had been presiding, shouted that Taylor "could not if he tried have given more aid and comfort to the Kremlin" than he did in his remarks to the Senate.

Taylor is a candidate for the vice presidency on the third party ticket of Henry Wallace.

Taylor opened a lengthy speech by saying Mr. Truman had turned down what Taylor called Russia's willingness to confer on differences between the United States and the Soviet.

"It isn't a question of America's bigness," Taylor told the Senate. "It's a question of the smallness of the president of the United States."

Taylor said "it is too bad the people of the United States and the world have to have their hopes dashed because we have a man from Missouri who thinks he has to live up to Missouri stubbornness, now that he has set out to be tough."

Taylor charged the administration is leading America "down the road Hitler took the Germans." He added we have moved into Hitler's shoes and are determined to conquer and "exploit the world."

The Idaho senator called Forrestal "the most dangerous man in America today—he is a potential Hitler."

Knowland, usually calm and deliberate when he speaks in the Senate, shouted his denunciation of Taylor.

Noting that he himself is a Republican, Knowland said that made no difference when Taylor turned to criticism of the president of the U.S., a Democrat.

Marshall Rules Out Direct Soviet-American Conference

Bevin Against Any 2-Power Negotiations

London, May 12—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the House of Commons today he was anxious for a settlement with the Soviet Union but to go into a conference before "the ground has been cleared" would invite failure.

Asked by former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden about the Soviet-American diplomatic exchange in which Russia announced Monday that she had "accepted" what she construed as a U. S. invitation to a conference, Bevin said:

"I suggest that to call a conference on the basis of generalities without precise preparatory work is going to land us exactly where we were with four-power conferences."

He criticized Moscow for publicizing the Russian and American statements, saying, before the United States Government received a reply from the Soviet Government, publication was made through the agency. While that diplomatic agency goes on, the clearing of the ground for an understanding is almost impossible.

Bevin said the ambassador of a nation cannot discuss quite frankly with the foreign minister of another without publication, if he cannot do that in order to bring the parties together, then the situation is not only intolerable, but peace is impossible.

He absolved the United States of any suspicion of carrying on secret diplomacy behind the backs of Britain and her western allies, saying the United States had only undertaken a "normal" exchange of views in Moscow.

He added that "the evidence all goes to show that the people of the world want peace" and "it is only the Communists who stand in the way."

Bevin's remarks were not at once refuted in France where there still is a hope that there actually will be some kind of conference between Russia and the United States. The French cabinet was informed by Foreign Minister Georges Bidault that France had advised the United States that she should participate directly in any settlement.

Elsewhere, too, the hopes kindled by Russia's announcement, were slow to die.

In the confusion first following the Moscow announcement, most of Europe's press had taken the view that there was little to lose and perhaps something to gain by such negotiations, despite the uncertainty of Soviet intentions.

Doubts now cropped up on all sides, however, that anything would come of the Soviet-American exchange.

Washington, May 12—(AP)—The Senate was told today that regular and reserve forces of the armed services will need 1,669,000 new men during the next year.

The manpower estimate was made in a formal report from the Senate Armed Services committee when it sent its new draft bill to the Senate.

Chairman Gurney (R-Sd) said this total is needed both to increase the regular forces and reserves, and to replace men now serving who will drop out during the next 12 months.

New enlistments have been less than the number of men quitting the armed forces, despite President Truman's pleas for strengthened defenses, the Senate was told.

The 70-group air force bill, passed yesterday by both House and Senate, still waited President Truman's signature. The air force marked time, but was ready with new orders for modern jet planes once the President's signature made the pressure final.

The controversial race segregation issue loomed as a stumbling block to Senate passage of the new draft bill.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.) said today that he and Senator Maybank (D-Sc) will try to get the floor to write in an amendment which the committee turned down yesterday.

Russell complained that publicity given his amendment had not explained it properly. He said his plan does not call for a strict policy of segregation.

One of the three, Alanway Johnson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, returned to Cleveland to celebrate his 73rd birthday with his family. He said he would be back.

PROBE OF WARTIME OIL DEALS SHOWS IBN SAUD BIG WINNER

The Senate War Investigating (Brewster) Committee isn't making as many front page headlines with its current investigation as it did with the Howard Hughes probe, but this one might prove to be more productive.

The committee says that the four big American oil firms that own the Arabian-American Oil Company (Aramco) overcharged the government from $20,000,000 to $38,000,000 on sales to the Navy between 1942 and 1947. This happened when Aramco set the price of oil at $1.05 a barrel after promising to sell to the Navy at 40 cents a barrel.

The committee's story, bolstered by documented evidence, recalls the panicky and almost forgotten days when Rommel and his Nazis were rolling on to Cairo with little prospect of being stopped. King Ibn Saud started playing hard to get about that time. So the oil companies, which were trying to get oil concessions from him, came to the government for help.

The government, says the Brewster Committee, responded with almost $100,000,000 of the taxpayers' money for the Saudi-Arabian monarch. In return, the Navy was to get oil at the 40-cent price. But after Rommel was driven back, the price went up to $1.05.

Further, the committee charges, oil company representatives held government positions—one was an assistant to the undersecretary of state—during these oil negotiations, and gave their employers advance tips on every State Department move. At the same time the government didn't know what the oil companies were doing and, in spite of all the millions given in assistance, was allowed to have no control over the companies' policies.

The Navy has defended the oil purchases by saying that while it did pay $1.05 a barrel instead of 40 cents, the price was still 79 cents less than it would have had to pay at home or in the Dutch West Indies. So Aramco officials say their company really saved the Navy $26,500,000. They also say that Aramco gave Ibn Saud $16,000,000 while the government only gave him $18,000,000 in "direct lend-lease."

The committee comes back with the statement that Aramco presumably would repay itself these advances out of profits, while the lend-lease money is unrecoverable. It also charges that the parent company has set up foreign subsidiaries, with profits of more than $100,000,000, which aren't paying taxes to the United States.

Wherever the truth may lie in all these charges and counter-charges, it certainly is worth looking for. And it seems to us that it took a certain amount of courage in a Republican-controlled Senate committee to start this investigation of "big business" at a time when their party is passing the hat for presidential campaign funds.

(We say a certain amount of courage, because if the Democrats had started yelling for action in this matter and action hadn't been forthcoming, some Republican candidates would have felt the taxpayers' reaction at the polls.)

So as things stand now, it looks as if the taxpayers might be the losers in this Aramco deal. But there is no question of whom the winner was. It was old Ibn Saud, the threadbare, battle-scarred sheik who pulled one of the smartest one-man shakedowns in history to make himself a multi-millionaire.

Exhibits Paintings At I.C.

Miss Barbara Hobbs, instructor in art at Illinois College, was caught by the camera as she worked on a painting, "Burden." Her oil paintings, sculpture and graphics are on exhibit in Tanner Library for two weeks. Mrs. Moore Loses 38 Pounds In Short Time With Rennel

What Mrs. D. Moore, Bethany, Mo., says, "Rennel Concentrate is wonderful. I used only six bottles and in a few weeks my weight went down 38 pounds. Those many pounds of flabby excess fat which are now gone make a big difference."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Why not try this effective yet inexpensive method of reducing and enjoy the pleasures of feeling younger and more alive. Try Rennel and notice the admiring looks you will receive from your friends as your figure becomes younger and your vitality increases. Just go to your drug-ist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough unswartened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle and then take two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If you aren't satisfied with the results return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry. For you WON'T be hungry. Insist on the genuine Rennel.

Disaster Report Tells Of Work In Bunker Hill Area

The rebuilding of lives and homes as the result of 13 major disasters in 43 midwest counties during March and April has to date, accounted for over one-half million dollars in American Red Cross funds and the services of 63 on-the-spot national workers, according to a report received by W. H. Kurtz, disaster chairman of the local Red Cross chapter.

Mr. Kurtz said the report shows that 77 persons died and 908 were injured in floods, tornadoes, explosions, and fires that occurred in the seven-week period beginning with the Centralia, Illinois, explosion of March 18 and ending with the May 2 tornadoes at McKinney, Texas, and Tishomingo, Oklahoma.

Although a total of $566,310.96 has been committed for the rehabilitation of disaster victims so far, the total will be several times that amount, the disaster chairman said. Most of it goes for building and repair of homes for families whom disasters leave without enough reserves to rebuild their own dwellings.

Highest commitments to date are in the seven Illinois and three Missouri counties struck by floods and tornadoes in mid-March. In Bunker Hill and Gillespie, Ill., devastated by tornado March 19, there still remain 38 persons with serious and long-term ailments whose medical financing the Red Cross has undertaken as part of its rebuilding job.

Many of the 285 injured in the tornado area suffered fractured spines, cracked pelvises, and fractured hips. To date, the organization has committed $379,575.56 in the tornado area where the work of rebuilding and repairing scores of homes is well under way.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Job Had the Folks in Stitches!

At the Friday Night Social, Job Crowell had the audience in stitches—doing a take-off on the blustering character who belittles everybody and everything that isn't from his own home town.

Well, we can laugh at that sort of character because from where I sit, Americans are just the opposite. We like to boast a bit perhaps, about the point job on the new barn, or the misadventure of cooking—but we aren't intolerant of people who don't think or act exactly the same way we do.

In our town, for instance: Some folks like head concerts, others don't—some families serve beer with dinner, others, buttermilk—and as for politics, there's plenty of healthy disagreement.

But when it comes to denying folks the right to think or act as they choose... no, we're like you—we don't believe in it, whether it goes for serving beer, or speaking one's mind on public affairs.

It takes three mild, gentle Calumet Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Calumet is making the new flow. Ask for Calumet's Little Liver Pills, 25¢ at any drugstore.

Chapin Alumni To Hold Annual Banquet May 21

Chapin—The Alumni Association of the Charles S. French community high school at Chapin will hold its annual banquet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, May 21. At the end of the banquet the business meeting will be held and officers for the coming year will be elected at this time.

All former students of the school are invited to attend and bring a guest. Reservations must be made before May 14 with Miss Audrey Nienhiser, secretary-treasurer of the association. Other officers of the group are: William Fisher, president; and Gordon Johnson, vice-president.

The Chapin high school is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year. But because the school records were burned in a fire at the old school in 1920 a complete list of former students is not available.
Therefore any alumnus who fails to receive an invitation is requested to get in touch with Miss Nienhiser.
Ladies of the Chapin Christian church will serve the banquet.

School Enrollment Is Family Affair When Gene R. Way, teacher, calls the roll at Union Grove school in Greene county, time could be saved by answering by the family unit system. Three of the pupils are children of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hopper, while Donna P. Jones is "by herself" in school.

Mr. Way brought his four pupils to Jacksonville for an educational tour Tuesday. They visited the Journal Courier plant during the afternoon. The four pupils are Wilma D. Charles K., and Lowell Dean Hopper, and Donna P. Jones.

Union school is located north of Athensville. Thus far it has escaped competition although the number of pupils is small, and the district expects to operate next year.

There was no spot in Akron where you could get a better picture of the population than at the municipal airport on Sunday afternoon. Cars of every conceivable make jam the parking places. Buses unloosed men with the grime of the factory still on their near-gard faces. There are women carrying treasured babies and dragging by the hand small, shabbily dressed children. There are girls. Girls to smart suits girls in cheap sweaters and shapeless slacks.

There are others. Men in uniform, and men with discharge buttons in the levels of ill-fitting ready-made suits.

There are small boys wriggling in and out of the crowd, squealing with excitement as they identify every make of plane which wheels aloft.

Everyone is interested, thrilled, standing with upturned faces and eyes squinting against the blinding glare of the sun.

Jessica Blake wedged tightly in the crowd which pressed close against the stout iron fence surrounding the airport.

Flying was wonderful, she thought as she stood shielding her eyes from the glare of the sun and watching a great twin-engine plane zoom in. Imagine being able to take off and in a few minutes be up there leaving this crowded, squalid town behind you!

Soberly she reminded herself: but you can't escape so why not enjoy this short reprieve from the drab everyday existence you must lead until Tom comes home?

She moved closer, taking advantage of a break in the crowd, and saw a station wagon wheel down the field and stop beside a plane warming up to take off. Army officers and other important-looking personages got out.

"Bound for Washington," exclaimed a man just behind Jessica. "Mexican officials," said another voice. "They've been here on a tour of inspection."

"Akron can give them ideas," boasted the first. The other man laughed and the two went on to talk about the rubber center and its important position in the post-war world.

Jessica listened shyly, thinking how Tom's really knew or cared about this town where she lived. But I won't live here all my life, she told herself, and suddenly remembered that in her absorption in the scene before her, she had completely lost track of the time. Lucy would be angry and justify so.

As she started to wick her way back through the crowd, a huge man in a dirty, sweat-soaked shirt gave her a violent shove which made her lose her balance. Another man tried to push him back and in another minute a general scuffle threatened. Then someone caught her arm in a firm, hard grasp and helped her keep her balance.

A man whose voice she recognized as one of the two who had been talking about rubber said, "Are you all right?"

He had swung her around and toward the fence and they stood close together and alone while the crowd milled about behind them.

"Yes," she said breathlessly and oddly stirred by the admiring expression in the man's bright blue eyes as he continued to hold her arm. "Thanks. I was about to leave."

"Don't go yet. Look—" He indicated the speed with which the plane with its freight or important passenger shot down the runway. He explained just who the passenger was and although she knew that she should leave, Jessica hesitated for a few minutes longer.

For he had been kind; without his support she might have been thrown down and injured. While the man made excuses to herself for remaining, watching, laughing, concluding.

"I knew it was a mistake to keep a chicken around the house!"

Gov. Greene Holds Pre-Convention Talks In Capital

By D. Harold Oliver
Washington, May 12—(AP)—Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois arrived today seeking advice on what to put in his keynote speech to the Republican National convention.

He will remain three days exchanging views with Senate and House party leaders and others. Aides said he has no hard and fast schedule. The talks will be more "catcher as catch can."

There are indications that Green, who is believed to have vice presidential ambitions, will not confine his conferences to any one group.

Before he leaves town, it was reported, he may seek out Senator Baldwin (R-Conn.) and others of the nine-member group who met recently vowing to combat any effort that might be construed as tagging the GOP "reactionary" or "isolationist."

Whether Green will see Senator Morse (R-Ore.) is not known. Morse criticized the self-styled nine progressive Senators for leaving him and four others out of their meeting. He claims to have originated the idea of a conference to fight for a progressive platform.

Green's first interview today was with Chairman Carroll Reece of the GOP National committee.

Among others he plans to see Senators Taft of Ohio and Vandenberg of Michigan. He also will consult Senator Martin of Pennsylvania, House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts and Rep. Halleck of Indiana, House majority leader.

Meanwhile, the selection of national convention delegates yesterday and today brought the total chosen by Republicans to 522, with only 272 to go, and the Democrats to 556 out of 1,234.

Mrs. Ruth Stehman was appointed district chairman for the puppet show which will be given in the afternoon and evening of Thursday, May 20. Mrs. Helen Williams will assist Mrs. Stehman.

During the meeting an invitation to attend the regular June meeting of the Jacksonville evening unit of the Home Bureau was read.

Three Students Of I.C. Narrowly Escape Death When Car, Train Collide

Lions Club Sets Tentative Dates For Fall Festival

Plans for the annual Fall Festival sponsored by the Lions club were discussed at a meeting of the group held Wednesday night at the Dunlap hotel.

Tentative dates set for the affair are September 20 and 21.

For the program Wednesday night a technicolor film, featuring Alan Ladd, was shown by John Murray. The movie entitled "Unfinished Rainbows," depicted the story of aluminum from the time it was first produced until the present time.

The three young men were taken in Withee's ambulance to Passavant hospital, where they were treated by Dr. Ellsworth Black for injuries, none of them serious. The 1941 Studebaker Commander was demolished.

Robert Sheerin of Virden, owner and driver of the automobile suffered scratches on the forehead, abrasions to the left knee, and was suffering from shock.

Wallace Beasley of Girard, a passenger in the car, received lacerations on the forehead, abrasions to the right knee and minor scratches.

Glenn Henricks of Chicago, another passenger, suffered multiple abrasions and was X-rayed for possible back injuries.

Did Not Hear Train, Alarm
Sheerin told Deputy Sheriff Harry Timmons, who with Deputy Albert Roach, investigated the accident, that the three were on their way to Lake Jacksonville to go fishing and that he did not hear the train or an alarm bell. He said that when he saw the engine it was upon them.

The train, No. 27, is a Diesel engine with one combination car. It left the Jacksonville station at approximately 5:10 p. m., standard time. When the train and car hit, the automobile was thrown over the side of the track. Sheriff's forces said it was completely wrecked.

Shepard's crossing is located on the lake road about a mile east of route 67 and east of the Charles Ransom farm. The car contained fishing poles, fishing tackle and bait, the officers said.

The hospital reported at midnight that none of the three college men were seriously hurt and that all three were resting.

Called Largest Suit
The complaint was filed in the office of Circuit Clerk Frank W. Finn and is believed to be the largest damage suit ever filed in Cass county. Glen Ratcliffe of the law firm of Ratcliffe and Proctor of Lewistown and State's Attorney C. G. Colburn will represent the plaintiffs.

Most of the plaintiffs listed seek damages ranging from $3,000 to $50,000.

The suit charges that all five gates of the Springfield lake dam were lowered 10 feet to their maximum depth on May 18, 1943, permitting 30,000 cubic feet per second to flow into Sugar creek, a tributary emptying into the Sangamon river two miles above Riverton.

This additional water, estimated in the bill at four billion cubic feet, raised the Sangamon by three feet and on May 21 the levee of the Farmers drainage district of Mason county was "overtopped, broken, washed down and greatly damaged."

The complaint charges that Springfield secured no permit for the construction or maintenance of a dam when the lake was built in 1930-1934 and that it is the duty of the city not to allow discharge of water through gates or locks in greater volume than would have flowed naturally into the waters of Sugar creek.

The Cass county plaintiffs, all owners of real estate or farm tenants in the Sangamon bottoms, pooled resources and established a general fund to finance the suit.

Defends Dam Opening
In Springfield, City Engineer S. T. Anderson, said "no excess water went over the dams."

"Floods were controlled better with the dams than without them," he added.

Hugh Graham, Springfield city attorney, said the national defense would be "that damage was caused by overwhelming floods over which no one had any control."

Amvet Post Hears Report On Recent Chicago Meeting

Jerome L. Cohen reported on a state convention for the prevention of juvenile delinquency in Chicago on April 28-30 at the regular meeting of Amvet Post 100 Tuesday night at the Amvet Hall. At this session members voted to donate $100 to the Moss Walton American Legion post for the construction of a new home.

Plans for future activities made last night include a free dance for members and guests on Saturday, May 15, and a fish fry on Friday, May 21. The program for the evening included the showing of a movie, "Clear Track Ahead."

At the meeting 17 new members were accepted. They are: John T. Carrigan, Warren A. Seymour, Lloyd M. Sauer, Calvin Stalter, Jr., Kenneth G. Peak, Bernard E. Bishop, Charles D. Cook, Tom E. Cooley, Glenn Spencer, Bert Elliott, Leo B. Lahey, Robert Earl Knowles, Howard H. Ryan, Earl E. Cannon, Kenneth R. Murphy, George Vanier and Thomas G. Staples.

The third party was blasted as communist by vice president Van A. Bittner of Atlanta after the convention had booted two other delegates, Charles Fizer of Hammond, Ind., and Irvin Fleet of Philadelphia, who argued that the third party "might help us."

Delegates did decide to back the national CIO political action committee and raise nearly a million dollars for it after its secretary and their own union secretary, David J. McDonald, told them:

The CIO is a potent force in 100 congressional districts. We can elect 34 congressmen and we can help elect 66 others."

Farmers Ask Million In Flood Damage Suit Against Springfield

Virginia—Mason county farmers are expected to file a damage suit today against the City of Springfield, requesting nearly $1,000,000 in damages from flood waters allegedly caused by the opening of flood gates of Lake Springfield.

The Mason county action would parallel action taken by Cass county farmers Monday when 120 plaintiffs entered a suit for more than a million dollars for damages sustained in floods which occurred in May, 1943, Nov., 1946 and March and April, 1948.
